Dear Friends,

I have two very different problems. I have a permanent incurable left-Ankle which only allows me to move easily while wearing a brace all day and a need for a near by toilet if I'm on a longish journey and on 1st July 2011 I had major open heart surgery which was very successful for the last six months but the people who helped on the trains Dundee / Edinburgh and on to Perth help-^{ed} get me on to the trains quickly but not into my booked seat which had been allotted so my luggage & I were no where near a loo and the Rail for Disabled Travellers say they can't arrange more to help me. Can you please.

Yours sincerely

June Braithwaite
