

I [REDACTED] frequently use the railway station to commute to work. We have two small children and to travel into the centre of town, it is the safest, most environmentally friendly way to travel. Our roads are congested enough and we are encouraged to minimise our vehicle use, we do this by using the train. The alternative train station being Anniesland, with 2 small children is highly inconvenient and would encourage driving, so I strongly oppose the proposed closure of the station at Kelvindale.
