

Dear Sir / Madam,

Shirley Curle

Re question 29 on the consultative document Rail 2014.

Yes, cross border services should continue to go north of Edinburgh.

As one of those (many) who have difficulty carrying luggage, transferring the same between trains is something I view with anxiety.

Then there is the worry about connections. Increased services to address this might not materialise and could in any case be withdrawn at any time.

Yours faithfully

Mrs Shirley Curle.
