

5 Consultation

5.1 Introduction

A successful participation and consultation process is paramount in contributing to a scheme or proposal achieving its required objectives. Chapter 13 of STAG Manual covers participation and consultation of a proposal and states that it should be central to the planning exercise. In developing a process for participation and consultation 4no. key questions need to be addressed:

- What are the objectives for the process?
- When to involve people and on what?
- Who to involve?
- How to involve?

5.2 Consultation Planning for the A737 Dalry Study

Following a review of early information, it was clear that local concerns regarding transport related problems in Dalry had been in existence for a number of years. To allow the study team to appreciate and assess these concerns, it was determined that the first action needed to be an information gathering exercise from local key stakeholders. It was agreed with the Client that this exercise should be an inclusive consultation and should cast widely at a local level to include the local MSP, local councillors, Dalry Community Council, relevant North Ayrshire Council departments, Scottish Enterprise Ayrshire, Ayrshire Joint Structure team, Strathclyde Police, SPT, Bus Operators, and key environmental contacts including SNH, SEPA etc.

The consultations were carried by the appropriate team member: - Mouchel Parkman carried out the bulk of the consultations; Young Associates carried out the consultation process on environmental aspects, and Roger Tym and Partners consulted regarding economic impact issues.

When and where appropriate the consultees were later circulated with details of the proposed Options for their review. Buy-in to the proposed options was seen as key to widespread acceptance of the findings of the study.

5.3 Part 1 Consultation

During meetings and telephone calls the issues raised by the consultee were recorded and are discussed in Section 3 of this Report. Table 5.1 below provides a list of the consultees.

5.4 Part 2 Consultation

Continuing consultation with the key stakeholders is an essential element of the Part 2 Assessment. Details of the options under consideration for Part 2 Assessment were issued to the key stakeholders in June 2005. This was followed by a Public Meeting at Dalry Community Centre on 13th September and a final circular letter regarding Option 2 on 22nd September.

The Public Meeting on 13th September was attended by over 100 interested parties from Dalry. In preparing this section of the Report account has been taken of the issues raised at the meeting (a copy of the detailed notes of the meeting is provided in Appendix K to this Report).
